

Practical advice on management systems that equips you to compete and prevail.

Axsapt delivers and supports premium IT solutions at commodity prices, providing integrated and customised software suites configured specifically to enhance the operations, support the profitable growth and future development of your business.

Axsapt are equipped to supply small, medium and large enterprises with access to software, support infrastructure, training resources, consulting and specialised programming services to suit your commercial aspirations and financial reality.

Working with your business Axsapt will provide the most appropriate information management tools, from stand alone systems to meet specific finance or Customer Relationship Management (CRM) requirements to sophisticated Enterprise Resource Planning systems (ERP) that manage data across your entire business.

Whenever you're ready to liberate your company from the crippling constraints of commodity applications or the unsuitable software you may have previously had to endure, it's time to speak to Axsapt.

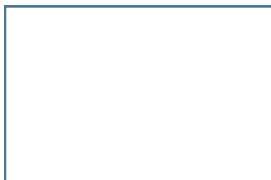

Dependence on Axsapt's exemplary customer service has developed long standing relationships resulting in the best customer retention rates in the industry. Axsapt is a growing business capable of providing practical insights, pertinent advice plus the supply and support of business management systems guaranteed to equip you to compete and prevail in evolving markets.

Are you ready for this?

- Are you ready to integrate and streamline your operational and managerial processes to gain better control of your entire business?
- Are you concerned that without professional attention your current computer systems may actually be inhibiting your planned growth?
- Are you running your computer system, or is your computer system managing your business' core daily activities?
- Is your staff really achieving the productivity gains your management information system promised?
- Are you receiving on demand access to all your critical real-time information?
- Are you confident of the quality and accuracy of the information to support your key business decisions?
- Are you wondering if rationalising your existing systems will actually make your life any easier?
- Are you convinced that the management information you receive provides a tangible commercial advantage over your competitors?
- Are you convinced that your supplier will tell you what could be lacking in the software they installed?
- Are you ready to ask if there's room for improvement, plus explore the latest possibilities emerging business technology can deliver?
- Are you ready to benefit from some timely Axsapt advice or accept a little independent guidance so you can improve your company's IT systems' use?

Regardless of whether you have in house or third party IT personnel and support, an expert second opinion can discover new ways to achieve superior business practice, realise your aspirations and profit from achieving your full potential.

Business IT for managing growth.

Axsapt have assembled a selection of core business applications for managing growth and scalable mission critical information management systems capable of embracing the developing needs of your business.

Axsapt's core business accounting applications provide essential business management tools to enhance manufacturing and distribution application software. They include:

- Comprehensive Accounting Solutions
- Import Tracking
- HR & Payroll Management
- Manufacturing Systems (MRP)
- Customer Relationship Management (CRM)
- Fixed Assets
- E-commerce Solutions
- Point of Sale (POS)
- Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP)
- Application Development

So you're ready for enlightened advice, empowering software and reliable support.

As soon as you're ready to plan and sustain profitable growth, gain a better insight into all the possibilities, understand the many new ways of achieving superior business practice to realise your company's full potential, you're ready to talk to Axsapt!

PRACTICAL ADVICE - Whenever you're ready

Regardless of what you rely on now, an independent appraisal and unbiased management systems analysis will update your appreciation of how to develop your business.

A business system's potential is fulfilled only when complemented by a software vendor equipped to transfer all the skills necessary to give power to its users.

Axsapt's practical experience has proven that optimum results are obtained when working cooperatively to assist you in achieving your business goals.

A strategic alliance that begins at implementation and extends far beyond software supply and the support will equip you with the confidence and management applications required to forge ahead.

EFFECTIVE TRAINING – Ensuring you're ready

A syllabus based on productive knowledge and specific software benefits ensures every relevant aspect is fully understood and readily accessible to enhance your human resources.

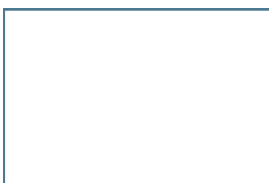

Each course is conducted by a qualified and authorised support consultant who will then become a member of your Axsapt support team. Training is scheduled so that all personnel directly associated with the software's operation have the confidence and skills to adopt the benefits immediately upon system implementation.

Axsapt's training syllabus is customised to ensure user familiarity with application attributes and functions, and to ensure that every applicable facet is adopted to enhance your business.

Individual orientation courses are also provided so that senior management may fully understand the available reporting tools and functions your new facilities will offer.

All training will be scheduled and conducted within Axsapt's quiet and convenient Skills Development Centre. This facility offers everything IT training programs demand, a private modern Computer Lab / IT Classroom equipped with custom configured computers that mirror each student's final operational environment.

Choose tuition from novice to advanced to suit new employees and valued staff members who want to increase their contribution to your organisation.

RESPONSIVE SUPPORT – So you're always ready

Adaptive support that, just like an in-house IT department, mirrors your demands to ensure your abilities never frustrate progress or impede your employees.

Axsapt Help Desk Support delivers unlimited priority assistance so your enterprise can gain full advantage of its application's attributes. Axsapt's customer support services enhance system reliability, and assure the stability of your core business applications. Axsapt's initial customer support services are aligned to each user's early requirements then adapted to suit their future needs.

One of the most valuable outcomes of an Axsapt support contract is access to operational information, automatically logged by your Axsapt support team that identifies any operational shortcomings or staff skills issues that could be detrimental to your business.

Remedial work and/or refresher operator training can be scheduled to ensure your management information systems remain aligned to you business objectives and continue to make an optimum contribution to its achievement.

An Axsapt support subscription is strongly recommended, whether or not you have or intend to develop an in-house IT department.

INNOVATIVE INTEGRATION & DEVELOPMENT – As soon as you're ready

Axsapt's team of software development professionals will sharpen your competitive edge by streamlining core business systems to make efficient use of isolated data and processes. Added flexibility and unique functionality can reinforce your strategic advantage by personalising a preferred solution.

Advanced integration of your existing and future mission critical applications can establish fail-safe business controls, eliminate manual backup systems, trap exceptions and eradicate non conforming activities from your business.

Contact Axsapt when you're ready to invest in your growth and prosperity.

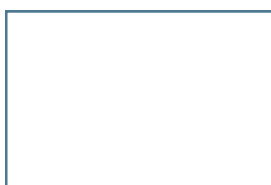

Axsapt's business model is founded on investing in and nurturing lasting business relationships, as reliant on our customers' growth and success as they are on effective management systems and decision support processes.

Axsapt's principals have complementary backgrounds in sound business practice, disciplined management processes and client confidentiality, qualities essential in any strategic relationship. The company's motivation is fuelled by the results of empowering our clients to profit from their full potential, by liberating them from the constraints of unsuitable management support systems and inappropriate information technology.

Unlike traditional software or hardware vendors, Axsapt is in the business of driving business success with IT solutions as individual as the ambitions and objectives of their broad client base. Axsapt enhance applications to eradicate technology lag, and support core business solutions that evolve to incorporate your future needs.

Axsapt support your enterprise with appropriate management information services that will adapt to your demands plus embrace your enterprise's differentiators to ensure your goals are realised without over specified complications or unwarranted up front investment.

Total Quality Management (TQM), a thorough understanding of clients' business priorities and the facilities available to make efficient and timely use of critical business data, add up to achieving the high returns you had always dreamt of from your investment in information processing technology.

Axsapt enjoy total confidence in the company's commitment to appropriate, sustainable and scalable Information Technology.

Our flexible and accommodating approach exemplifies the company's ability to augment existing applications, tailor new software solutions, establish appropriate support levels and provide timely knowledge transfer to empower your company, whenever you're ready!

Your essentials for profitable growth

Whether you are a growing small, medium or established large enterprise, the only way you can gain an understanding of all the possibilities, to efficiently plan and sustain profitable business growth is to seek essential advice on technology and to align your company's development with the direction of IT system progress.

Axsapt specialise in the development and support of affordable and scalable business solutions that empower their users to achieve efficiency, growth and profitability over the long term.

Each solution is backed by Axsapt's suite of training, technical and operational support to ensure your enterprise is equipped to benefit fully from all your software's attributes.

Axsapt eliminate the frustration faced by business's that have 'outgrown their software', by liberating companies and individuals from reliance on commodity applications. Many companies simply can not outgrow their entry level software and are destined to remain 'me too' companies, while solely dependent on 'me too' software.

Confidence in the promise of 'one size fits all' software has become common place in business today. That one size 'out of the box' application more often impedes what can be accomplished, and will likely inhibit your growth and future prosperity.

Following systematic investigation and needs analysis, Axsapt define the essential functionality to meet your existing demand, and then recommends any enhancements or your possible migration to a more practical technology platform to support your business development and growth objectives.

Extensive practical experience in world-class consultative, technical and design skills ensures that your Axsapt project team identifies and delivers the most appropriate software and support services to facilitate the completion of all your requirements in line with key milestones and within fiscal constraints.

In addition to Axsapt's implementation-specific expertise, you will gain invaluable access to their extensive knowledge in accounting practices, project management and related information technology, critical business resources that are absent from commodity software's operation manual.

This proactive resource ensures that every Axsapt IT solution remains adaptable, robust and scalable to meet emerging demands and your users are adept and capable of achieving best business practice.

Whenever you're ready to grow your business.

For further information
Please contact:

Axsapt Pty Ltd
Unit F3 16 Mars Road
Lane Cove, NSW 2066
T: 1300 297 278

